ARTICLE XV

REPEALS

Section 1501 Acts of Assembly Repealed—An act approved April twenty-six one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven entitled "An act relating to aeronautics regulating the licensing of aircraft and airmen and the establishment of airports and landing fields imposing duties and conferring powers upon the Department of Internal Affairs and providing penalties"

All other acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith shall be and the same are hereby repealed

Section 1502 Time of Taking Effect—The provisions of this act shall be in force from and after July first one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, although the hour is late, I feel the occasion is one that justifies asking the indulgence of the House a few minutes to make some remarks concerning this bill and the two following bills on the calendar. This is a program which involves aeronautic laws and regulations of the state of Pennsylvania. In 1927 this state for the first time passed a bill or bills which created in the department of Internal Affairs a department of aeronautics and created a commission which had power to make certain regulations in reference thereto. As a result of the operation of that department and in the experience of the department during the past biennium it was felt necessary to enact further legislation in reference to the subject. There were some questions in the minds of some people as to whether a state should enter into this field, and whether the field had not been usurped by the Federal authorities under the air commerce tax of 1925 and 1926. I think to the student of aeronautics, to the student of the constitution of our country, it must be apparent that this State should enter a field in which it is properly a party. I believe that we have given away as states many of our privileges and many of our powers and if there is a field that rightly belongs to a state we should do our full duty and take part therein. The first of these bills gives the power to a commission. The commission is created and is a part of the Administrative Code which is now or soon will be in this House. It provides for the licensing of pilots and provides that cities, towns, boroughs and other political subdivisions may purchase land for the purpose of creating air ports and landing fields. It conforms to the uniform law laid down by the several states. A little over 25 years ago two men were making experiments down in the sand hills of Carolina to enable them to create a machine heavier than air that would fly. It seems almost impossible that we have made the strides that we have in a short space of time that has passed. Today at the close of February, there were over thirty thousand miles of air ways in the United States and a daily average flying of fifty thousand miles. Last year the commercial companies of this country carried some fifty-two thousand passengers and flew ten million air miles. Therefore we can hardly understand, we can hardly conceive what the future holds for this subject, and I believe this state should take its part and in this way, in enacting this legislation.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—1.

Donnell,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1434, as follows:

An Act concerning aeronautics and establishing the legal status of air navigation providing for sovereignty in and ownership of air space imposing liability for injury or damage caused by aircraft fixing jurisdiction over and liability for contracts executed and torts and crimes committed during the operation of aircraft and repealing inconsistent legislation

Section 1 Short Title Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatves of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same That this Act shall be known and may be cited as the "State Law for Aeronautics"

Section 2 Definitions The following words and phrases when used in this Act shall for the purposes of this Act have the meaning respectively ascribed to them in this section

(a) "Aeronautics" The act or practice of the art and science of transportation by aircraft and operation construction repair or maintenance of aircraft airports landing fields or air navigation facilities

(b) "Aircraft" Any contrivance now known or hereafter invented used or designed for navigation of or flight in the air except a parachute or other contrivance designed for such navigation but used primarily as safety equipment

(c) "Owner" Any person firm corporation partnership or association holding title to any aircraft or having legal right to register the same

(d) "Pilot" An individual who operates an aircraft in flight or while under way

(e) "Passenger" Any person riding in an aircraft but having no part in its operation

Section 3 Sovereignty in Space Sovereignty in the space above or over the lands and waters of this Commonwealth is declared to rest in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania except where granted to the United States by a constitutional grant from the people of this Commonwealth

Section 4 Ownership of Space The ownership of the space over and above the lands and waters of this Commonwealth is declared to be vested in the owner of the surface beneath but such ownership extends only so far as is necessary to the enjoyment of the use of the surface without interference and is subject to the right of passage or flight of aircraft and radio communication. Flight through the space over and above land or water at a sufficient height and without interference to the enjoyment and use of the land or water beneath is not an actionable wrong unless said flight results in actual damage to the land or water or property thereon or therein or use of the land or water beneath

Section 5 Lawfulness of Flight Flight in aircraft over the lands and waters of this Commonwealth is lawful unless at such low altitude as to interfere with the then existing use to which the land or water or the space over the land or water is put by the owner or unless so conducted as to be dangerous or damaging to persons or property lawfully on the land or water beneath The landing of an aircraft on the lands or waters of another without his consent is unlawful except in the case of a forced or emergency landing For damage caused by a forced or emergency landing the owner lessee and operator of the aircraft shall be liable as provided in section six

Section 6 Damage on Land The owner and the operator or either of them of every aircraft which is operated over the lands or waters of this Commonwealth shall be liable for injuries or damage to persons or property on the land or water beneath caused by the ascent descent or flight of aircraft or the dropping or falling of any object therefrom in accordance with the rules of law applicable to torts on land in this Commonwealth

Section 7 Jurisdiction Over Crimes and Torts All crimes torts and other wrongs committed by or against a pilot or passengers while in flight over or above the lands and waters of this Commonwealth shall be governed by the laws of this Commonwealth and the question whether damage occasioned by or to an aircraft while in flight over this State constitutes a tort crime or other wrong by or against the owner of such aircraft shall be determined by the laws of this Commonwealth

Section 8 Jurisdiction over Contracts All contractual and other relations entered into by pilots or passengers while in flight over or above the lands or waters of this Commonwealth shall be governed by the laws applicable to similar relations entered into on the lands of this Commonwealth

Sectoin 9 Repeal All cast or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this Act are hereby repealed

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 814, as follows:

An Act to amend section one of the act approved the twenty-first day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (Pamphlet Laws two hundred sixty-eight) entitled "An act relating to police pensions funds in cities of the third class and directing such cities to appropriate certain moneys thereto"

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section one of the act approved the twenty-first day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (Pamphlet Laws two hundred sixty-eight) entitled "An act relating to police pension funds in cities of the third class and directing such cities to appropriate certain moneys thereto" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That there shall be appropriated annually by the councils of each city of the third class to the organization or association constituting and having in charge the distribution of police pension funds in every city of the third class [a sum of money not exceeding one one-half of one per centum of all city taxes collected by the city other than taxes levied to pay interest on or to extinguish the debt of the municipality or any part thereof] which together with the moneys contributed thereto by the members thereof will be adequate to pay pensions payable during the ensuing year In order to assist council in arriving at the amount necessary to be so appropriated the organization authorized to hold receive and distribute pension funds therein shall certify to council not later than the first day of December of each year the number of persons entitled to receive pensions the amount that will be contributed during the ensuing year by members of the pension fund and the amount necessary to be appropriated by council to pay those entitled to receive pensions during the ensuing year

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. DONNELL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, when this bill started it was a good bill, but it has been so amended that there isn't anything good about it. I believe if we are going to do anything for the patrolmen in our cities, it should be something they would recognize as being a benefit. In this bill we are just giving them a china egg, and this bill should be defeated.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the county commissioners of each county within the Commonwealth shall on or before the seventeenth day before each general or municipal election appoint some competent person as a special registry assessor in each city of the third class within such county other than the county seat of such county for the purpose of assessing for occupation taxes for election purposes all residents of such city as the assessor or assistant assessor of the election district in which they reside may have neglected to assess

Section 2 The special registry assessors so appointed shall sit at some convenient place in such city on the sixty-third and sixty-fourth days next preceding the general or municipal election day following his appointment and shall assess every resident of such city appearing before him who has not been assessed by the registry assessor of the election district in which he resides in the same manner as other residents of such city are assessed for occupation taxes by the regularly elected assessor or assistant assessor of the election district in which he or she resides

Section 3 The person so appointed by the county commissioners for the purpose of making such assessments shall enter the name of each person assessed by him in a book to be prepared and furnished to him by the county treasurer and shall make the same entry therein as is made by the regular assessors or assistant assessors of the different election districts together with the residence and voting district of the person so registered He shall have all the power conferred by law upon regularly elected assessors relating to elections and shall have the power to administer oaths to any person claiming the right to be assessed

Section 4 After said assessments have been completed on the sixtieth day before the next succeeding general or municipal election such special assessor shall make a return to the county commissioners of the book or books in which he has entered the names of those persons assessed by him as hereinbefore provided

Section 5 After the return to them of the book containing the names of the persons assessed by the special assessor the county commissioners shall cause the names of the persons so assessed to be entered in the assessment lists of the different election districts in which such assessed persons are residents

Section 6 The person so appointed shall also have all the power conferred by law upon collectors of county taxes and may receive and receipt for county occupation taxes assessed by him He shall give bond to the county commissioners for the use of the county in a sum to be fixed by the county commissioners in proper form for the safe keeping and paying over to the county treasurer of all occupation taxes collected by him with such surety as may be approved by the county commissioners

Section 7 The county commissioners shall prepare blank occupation tax receipts attached to stub in books containing fifty each and issue such number to such special assessor as they may deem necessary Upon the payment of any such occupation tax to such special assessor he shall give a receipt therefor from the blank receipts furnished by the county commissioners and sign his name thereto as a deputy tax collector Payment of such tax to him by any person he has assessed shall entitle such person otherwise qualified to be registered

Section 8 Each such special assessor shall not later than twenty days preceding the election following the receipt of any such occupation taxes paid to him account to the county treasurer for all such taxes collected less ten per centum thereof which such special assessor may retain as his commission for collecting the same which commission shall be in addition to his compensation as special assessor He shall return the stub of each receipt given for taxes showing who paid the same and all unused receipts which shall be kept as records in the office of the county commissioners who shall also furnish to the regular tax collectors of the various election districts a list of the names of those persons in their respective districts who have paid their occupation taxes to such special assessor

Section 9 The special assessor so appointed shall receive as compensation for his services the sum of ten dollars for each day actually spent in the performance of the duties imposed by this act to be paid by the county

Section 10 The county commissioners of each county within the Commonwealth shall also appoint some competent person as a special registrar to sit at some convenient place in each third class city within such county other than the county seat of such county for the purpose of receiving the application for registration for election purposes of such persons otherwise qualified also either because of sickness or unavoidable absence from such city were unable to appear before the regular registrars of their respective election districts to be registered in person

Section 11 Upon the application of any such person to him or her for registration the special registrar so appointed shall furnish such applicant with a blank petition addressed to the county commissioners and assist him in properly preparing such petition and for such purpose he is hereby authorized to take the affidavit of such applicant to the truth of all facts set forth in such petition

Section 12 The said special registrar shall sit for the performance of his duties in the city for which he was appointed on the Thursday immediately preceding the next general or municipal election and shall return all the petitions of applicants for registration appearing before him not later than ten o'clock ante meridian of the Friday preceding such election

Section 13 The same action shall be taken by the county commissioners on the petitions returned to them by such special registrar as taken on similar petitions filed with them under the provisions of existing law and their action thereon shall be subject to the same right of appeal as is provided for other petitions filed with them for registration by persons unable to appear before the registrars of their respective election districts in person

Section 14 The special registrar appointed under the provisions of this act shall receive for his compensation the same amount payable by law to election registrars in third class cities to be paid by the county

Section 15 The county commissioners of any county in which such special assessors or special registrars are appointed under the provisions of this act shall give public notice of the time of and place at which such special assessor or special registrar shall sit for the performance of their duties for ten days prior to such time by at least three advertisements inserted in each of at least two daily newspapers published in the city for which they were appointed The first notice shall be published on the first day of such ten day period and the last on the day next preceding the time fixed

Section 16 Any such special assessor who shall upon request of any person assessed by him refuse to accept the payment of such county occupation tax or who shall fail to account to the county commissioners for all taxes received shall upon conviction thereof in a summary proceeding before an alderman be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars and costs and in default of the payment of such fine and costs be sentenced to imprisonment for a period of ten days

Section 17 Any wilful false statement made under oath by any person in relation to any matter or thing concerning which he shall be lawfully interrogated by such special assessor or special registrar shall be perjury and any person upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars or to undergo an imprisonment not exceeding two years or both in the discretion of the court

Session 1929 — 128th of the General Assembly

Vol. 11 — HARRISBURG, TUESDAY, MARCH 26, 1929 — No. 28

SENATE.

TUESDAY, MARCH 26, 1929.

The Senate met at 11 o'clock A. M.

The President (Lieutenant-Governor Arthur H. James) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Christian H. Shirk, offered the following prayer:

Our gracious God, we realize that during this week a large part of the religious world is engaged in devout meditation. During the week known as Passion Week Jesus Christ entered into the Temple and cast out illegal traffic and said it should be maintained as a place of worship of his Father in Heaven.

We pray that Thou mayst enter the temple of our hearts and cast out that which is evil, and dedicate it anew to the service of Thee, the true and loving God.

We pray that Thy power may manifest itself throughout the entire world, casting out that which is iniquitous and confirming that which is to Thy holy purposes.

We pray for the forgiveness of all our sins, in our Redeemer's name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. BUCKMAN, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

NAYS—0.

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 317, entitled:

An Act authorizing the sentencing of persons convicted for a second or subsequent offense of certain crimes to additional prison terms and to imprisonment for life.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. President, the bill under consideration at this time, Senate Bill No. 317, is entitled:

"An act authorizing the sentencing of persons convicted for a second or subsequent offense of certain crimes to additional prison terms and to imprisonment for life"

It seems to me that the Senators would like to have an explanation from the sponsor of this bill at this time.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, this is the Fourth Offense Act. (Under this act it is optional with a judge to sentence a man convicted a fourth time of a felony to life imprisonment.) This is in no way similar to the Baumes Law in New York. (The offenses are specifically mentioned in the bill, and they include the higher felonies,—murder, manslaughter, rape, robbery, arson and treason. In other words they are the five felonies under the law. This bill does not include any minor offense.

The consensus of opinion of the Crimes Commission was that if any man had been convicted of the commission of the high grade felonies under the law, that that man was not,—if in the opinion of the judge,—a competent person to be running loose.) That is the entire content of this particular bill. It has no effect on liquor or any of those trivial offenses at all.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. President, I would ask if this applies to four consecutive crimes in Pennsylvania only.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, no.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. President, four offenses in ten years?

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, as I understand it, that clause runs like this: If that man is convicted of a third offense, and ten years would elapse between the commission of his third offense and the commission of his fourth offense, this particular act would not apply. In other words, if a person were on his good behavior for ten years, this act would not apply against him on the fourth conviction.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. President, my reason for asking about this act was this: They have a similar law in Michigan. They are now repealing the law. Of course I do not think that this law is quite as drastic as the Michigan law, but it seems to me it is pretty far fetched.

The Commission on Crimes have asked to be continued for another two years. There may be some relief, after two years, if we pass this bill.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I would like the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, to give a record of any similar character of case—of four major crimes or five major felonies, as mentioned a moment ago. Is there any case on record of any such a convict?

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I would say that to the best of my recollection there is not. I do not know of any particular case, at this time, of any defendant who has been convicted of these four major crimes. I do not recall any such case. And that is the reason I am convinced that this bill is not very strenuous.

It is not my bill. I brought it in here at the request of the Chairman of the Committee on Judiciary General and the Crimes Commission.

To my mind it is not a very dangerous proposition, and it is not to be compared at all to the Michigan law, where they send a man to jail for buying a pint of liquor. Under this law a man might be convicted 25 times of selling liquor—I hope no man will be convicted so often because it would cost the county too much money; but this applies to the man who has made it his life's business to be a hardened criminal,—and a man like that is not fit to roam around loose. You gentlemen of the Senate know I am always on the side of the poor fellow who is liable to go to jail; and this is not a piece of legislation such as has been in force in Michigan.

The PRESIDENT. It is bad policy for a Senator to permit himself to be used as the Senator from Philadelphia has permitted himself to be used in this case.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, may I interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus?

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I would be perfectly satisfied if the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Harris, will allow me to go and collect another fee from the Crimes Commission.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia has already stated that he knows nothing about the bill. If the Senator from Allegheny persists as to his interrogation, he may proceed.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, (I do persist, I ask if it is mandatory on the part of the judge, or at his discretion.)

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, it is optional with him.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. President, there is a great objection to this bill—it is again placing in the Courts more power; and I think the courts have all the power they should have at the present time. That is one reason why I am very much opposed to this bill. I would rather have it mandatory on a jury than make it optional with the Court. The Court is being granted more power year by year, and this optional power does not amount to anything. I myself think it is a bad bill.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. President, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was not agreed to.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "aye".

The PRESIDENT. Did the Senator vote when his name was called?

Mr. KITTS. Mr. President, I did not hear my name called, —somebody attracted my attention at that time.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, the Mayor of Philadelphia last year appointed a committee of citizens who employed experts and spent a good deal of time and brought in a report to the Mayor on the contract system of Philadelphia, and one of their major recommendations was that the city purchasing department, the so-called Department of Supplies, be extended to the county.

Ten years ago, when the City Charter was passed, we presented a bill similar to this. It passed the Senate but unfortunately the chairman of the committee in the House was personally interested in the selling of stationery to the judges, county judges, and he pigeonholed the bill. We have been waiting ten years to have this bill passed again.

Now, it is a fundamental proposition that in the City and County of Philadelphia, we have a legal faction, as you know, between the city government and the county government. We have the County Commissioners and then we have a purchasing department, or Department of Supplies, for the City of Philadelphia. This bill will save the taxpayers considerable money by swinging all purchases for city and county into the hands of the purchasing department of the city government.

I understand there is some politics mixed up in this bill,—

—Mr. DAVIS. Mr. President, by whom?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President I know nothing about it, —why there should be. It is nothing but a business proposition; and I believe the Senators who are neutral in this matter will support this bill and give us a chance to save a little money in Philadelphia by having all the purchases made by one man.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I am glad to hear from Senator Woodward. There may be some politics mixed in it,—I did not know there was and I don't know there is now; but this is an attempt to patch up in some way or another our existing conditions in Philadelphia. This is not the way to change our conditions, if we are going to change them,—to put one department on one basis and another department on another basis. The first thing we know, instead of a democratic form of government in Philadelphia we will have one of those crazy quilts where every department will be different, and will not be working under a systematic condition.

I do not know just who is behind this bill and do not know why it is introduced in the Senate; but I believe that we in Philadelphia ought to be allowed to run our business as we think best.

I do not know who is for or against this bill, but I know it will be breaking into our system of government piecemeal;

and I do not believe the City of Philadelphia or any other municipality should be put in that position. I do not believe this is good legislation for our city, and I am almost satisfied that every other Senator from Philadelphia is opposed to it. I am not absolutely convinced that Senator Woodward, even, is for it.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, just a moment more, please. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, does not understand that the committee appointed by the Mayor was a most representative committee,—composed of representatives from Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, as well as other business men; and they considered this matter very seriously before recommending it,—and the Mayor would like to have this bill passed,—that is why he appointed this committee. And as for being piecemeal and incoherent, or words to that effect, it is part and parcel of the City Charter of ten years ago,—that is all it is.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, may I ask the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, a question?

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, whether or not a majority of the Senators on this floor are opposed to this bill.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I would say that a majority of the Senators on this floor are opposed to this bill. If the Mayor of Philadelphia is interested in this bill, I know he has never said anything to me about it, and I doubt whether he has ever said anything to the other Senators, and if Senator Buckman wants to ask the other Senators I have no objection. But I never heard from the Mayor or anyone else from the City of Philadelphia that he is interested in this bill. I know when this bill came in he proceeded to arrange matters in accordance with what he thought was right and he may have arranged some conferences, which he took care of locally. If the Mayor is interested in this bill he has never so stated to anyone I have interviewed.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I have no interest in this bill,—it is purely a local Philadelphia bill, but I want to say this: If the chosen representatives of Philadelphia on this floor are opposed to this bill, I am opposed to it. If they are for it, I am for it. I believe in team work in a representative form of government. If I am for a thing in my own district I expect the Senators to be with me; and I will be with a majority of members on this floor from Philadelphia on matters pertaining to their district. If it is their desire that this bill be not passed, I will vote with the majority.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I would like to correct another statement made by the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus.

I had the pleasure of having a conference with the Mayor on Friday morning at about 10:30 in his own office, and understood him to be heartily in favor of this bill.

Mr. FRAZIER. Mr. President, in view of what Senator Buckman has inquired, I might say it was my privilege to be permitted to introduce in this body bills in which the administration was interested, having to do with the action of the special committee appointed by the mayor, and the bill I introduced had nothing to do with having the county included in the city. And therefore in answer to the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, I would say that so far as I am concerned, never at any time has it been suggested to me by anybody that the bill be passed.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Frazier.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Frazier, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FRAZIER. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I want to ask the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Frazier, if he does not represent the senatorial district in which the mayor now resides.

Mr. FRAZIER. Mr. President, I do,—I want to correct that answer by saying I represent the district in which the Mayor resided before he was elected Mayor, but under the press of duties and the necessity of being down near City Hall he has moved down to one of our apartment houses and we lost him,—I hope only temporarily.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I should like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Frazier.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Frazier, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FRAZIER. Mr. President, with pleasure.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, is it not the understanding of the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Frazier, that the so-called Mayor's Committee, of which Mr. Gates was chairman, made this one of its major recommendations?

Mr. FRAZIER. Mr. President, I have no knowledge on that. What I wanted to convey to this body was that when the bills were handed to me to be submitted to the Senate I understood that the bills were in the shape in which the Administration desired them to be. I know nothing since then as to what may have transpired between the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, and the Mayor, but as the bills were submitted to me they were in the shape the Administration wanted them to be in, and they complied with the wishes of the committee appointed by the Mayor.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I would like to inquire of the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Frazier,, through the President Pro Tem, if it is not the fact that when Mr. Gates' Committee sat in the Mayor's anteroom, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Frazier, was not there but I was there and heard this as one of their major recommendations.

Mr. FRAZIER. Mr. President, if I was paying $100,000 in taxes in Philadelphia, I could go around to these meetings. But I am a poor man, and my duties require that I be in my office.

The PRESIDENT. The debate will be confined to the merits of the bill.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I would like to reply to the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Frazier, by saying that, paying as much in taxes as I do, I am vitally interested in saving my money through this bill.

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The third to the thirty-first sections of the bill were read as follows and agreed to.

Section 3 Placing the Question on the Ballot Election thereon—(a) The county commissioners may upon their own motion submit to the qualified electors of the county or of any city borough or township thereof at any election the ppuestion "Shall voting machines be used in the (county city borough or township) of?"

(b) The county commissioners upon receipt of a request from the council of any city or borough or from the commissioners or supervisors of any township said request being evidenced by the filing of a copy of a resolution certified by the secretary or clerk of the council commissioners or supervisors or upon the filing of a petition with them signed by qualified electors of the county city borough or township equal in number to at least one per cent of the total number of electors who voted in said county city borough or township at the preceding general or municipal election but in no case less than fifty unless the total number of electors who voted therein at the preceding general or municipal election was less than one hundred in which case one half of the number so voting shall be sufficient shall at the next general municipal or primary election occurring at least sixty days thereafter submit to the qualified electors of such county city borough or township the question "Shall voting machines be used in the (county city borough or township) of?"

(c) The county commissioners shall cause the said question to be printed upon the ballots to be used at the election in the form and manner provided by the laws governing general and municipal elections

(d) The election on said question shall be held at the places during the hours and under the regulations provided by law for holding general and municipal elections and shall be conducted by the election officers provided by law to conduct such election The election officers shall count the votes cast at the election on said question and shall make return thereof to the prothonotary of the county as required by law Said returns shall be computed by the court of common pleas or other return board and when so computed a certificate of the total number of electors voting Yes and of the total number of electors voting No on such question shall be filed in the office of the prothonotary and a copy thereof certified by the prothonotary shall forthwith be furnished to the county commissioners

(c) If a majority of the electors of any county city borough or township voting on such question shall vote against the adoption of voting machines the question shall not again be submitted to the voters of such political subdivision within a period of one hundred and three weeks

(f) Whenever under the provisions of this section the question of the adoption of voting machines is about to be submitted to the electors of any county city borough or township it shall be the duty of the county commissioners or other autnority which levies taxes for county purposes in such county to ascertain whether current funds will be available to pay for said machines if adopted and purchased or whether they have power to increase the indebtedness of the county in an amount sufficient to pay for the same without the consent of the electors and if such current funds will not be available and the power to increase the indebtedness of the county in a sufficient amount without the consent of the electors is lacking it shall be the duty of the county commissioners or other authority aforesaid to submit to the electors of the county in the manner provided by law at the same election at which the adoption of voting machines is to be voted on the question whether the indebtedness of such county shall be increased in an amount specified by them sufficient to pay for such voting machines if adopted

Section 4 Installation of Voting Machines—(a) If a majority of the qualified electors voting on the question shall vote in the affirmative the county commissioners of the said county shall purchase for each election district of such county city borough or township one or more voting machines of a kind or kinds approved by the Secretary of the Commonwealth as hereinafter provided and shall notify the Secretary of the Commonwealth in writing that they have done so The county commissioners shall provide machines in good working order and shall preserve and keep them in repair Voting machines of different kinds may be used for different districts in the same county city borough or township

(b) Such voting machines shall be installed either simultaneously or gradually in political subdivisions which adopt them Upon the installation of voting machines in any election district the use of paper ballots therein shall be discontinued except as otherwise provided herein

(c) If voting machines are installed gradually they shall be introduced in the case of counties in alphabetical order by cities boroughs and townships so that they will first be used in the city borough or township the name of which is first in alphabetical order and then in the city borough or township the name of which is next in alphabetical order and so on In cities boroughs and townships they shall be introduced in numerical or alphabetical order by wards and election districts if any so that they will be first be used in the first election district of the first ward and then in the second election district of the first ward and so on After they have been installed in all the election districts in the first ward they shall be installed in the same manner in the second ward then in the third ward and so on In any event the machines shall be installed as rapidly as practicable after the electors have voted in favor of them

(d) If the question hereinbefore provided shall have been submitted to the qualified electors of the county city borough or township and the majority of the electors voting thereon shall have voted favorably thereon and if the county commissioners shall not within one year have executed their contract or contracts for the purchase or procurement of voting machines for use at the next general municipal or primary election occurring at least one year and sixty days after the referendum then the Secretary of the Commonwealth shall forthwith in writing notify the said county commissioners that after the expiration of thirty days he under the authority of this act on behalf of the said county will award make and execute such contract or contracts unless the said county commissioners meanwhile shall have made and executed the same

(e) If upon the expiration of said thirty days the county commissioners still shall not have made and executed the contract or contracts aforesaid the Secretary of the Commonwealth on behalf of the said county and upon the approval of the Attorney General as to form shall thereupon award make and execute a contract or contracts for the purchase or procurement of one voting machine approved as required by this act for each election district within each such county city borough or township and the cost of such voting machines including the delivery thereof and of making and entering into the said contract or contracts including the preparation and printing of specifications and all other necessary expense incidental thereto shall be the debt of the said county and upon the certificate of the Secretary of the Commonwealth it shall be the duty of the controller if any to allow and of the treasurer of the county to pay the sum out of any appropriation available therefor or out of the first unappropriated moneys that come into the treasury of the county

(f) Provided That if the county commissioners or the Secretary of the Commonwealth as the case may be shall find it impracticable to procure a voting machine or voting machines for each election district of the county city borough or township for use at the general municipal or primary election then next ensuing they or he shall provide as many machines as it shall be practicable to procure and as soon thereafter as practicable shall provide the remainder of such machines required hereunder The machines shall be installed in the election district or districts in the manner provided for the gradual introduction of voting machines in Paragraph (c) of this section

(g) Any county city borough or township may by a majority vote of its qualified electors cast at any general election held not earlier than one hundred and three weeks after they have voted to adopt such machines direct the discontinuance of the use of voting machines at elections held in such county city borough or township The question for the discontinuance of the use of such voting machine shall be submitted to the voters in the same manner and subject to the same requirements as to petition and signatures thereon as is required for the submission of the question on the authorization of the use of such voting machines

Section 5 Changing the Boundaries of Election Districts—(a) The courts of quarter sessions shall upon petition redivide wards of cities or boroughs where voting machines are adopted into election districts of compact and contiguous territory or shall consolidate election districts therein into new districts each having eight hundred registered voters as nearly as may be except that districts having less than eight hundred registered voters may be created whenever the court shall be of opinion that the convenience of the voters and the public interests will be promoted thereby

(b) Petitions may be presented to the court of quarter sessions to redivide wards of cities or boroughs into election districts or to consolidate election districts either by the county commissioners or by ten or more qualified voters of the districts involved Such petitions may specify the boundaries desired by the petitioners

(c) If there are more than six hundred registered voters in an election district more than one voting machine may be used therein

(d) Upon the redivision of any ward of a city or borough into election districts and upon the consolidation of election districts under the provisions of this section the said court shall appoint the necessary election officers and fix the places for holding the first election thereafter in said new districts

(e) The cost of proceedings for the redivision and consolidation of election districts under this section shall be paid by the county

Section 6 Examination and Approval of Voting Machines by Secretary of Commonwealth—(a) Any person or corporation owning manufacturing or selling or being interested in the manufacture or sale of any voting machine may request the Secretary of the Commonwealth to examine the machine Before the examination such person or corporation shall pay to the treasury of the Commonwealth an examination fee of four hundred and fifty dollars ($450)

(b) The Secretary of the Commonwealth shall thereupon require such machine to be examined by three examiners whom he shall appoint for the purpose of whom one shall be an expert in patent law and the other two shall be experts in mechanics and shall require of them a written report on such machine attested by their signatures and the Secretary of the Commonwealth himself shall examine the machine and shall make and file in his office together with the reports of the examiners appointed by him his own report attested by his signature and the seal of his office stating whether in his opinion and in consideration of the reports of the examiners aforesaid the kind of machine so examined can be safely used by electors at elections as provided in this act If his report states that the machine can be so used the machine shall be deemed approved and machines of its kind may be adopted for use at elections as herein provided

(c) No kind of voting machine not so approved shall be used at any election

(d) When a machine has been so approved no improvement or change that does not impair its accuracy efficiency or capacity shall render necessary a re-examination or re-approval of the machine or of its kind

(e) Neither the Secretary of the Commonwealth nor any examiner appointed by him for the purpose prescribed by this section shall have any pecuniary interest in any voting machine or in the manufacture or sale thereof

(f) Each examiner appointed hereunder shall receive a compensation of one hundred and fifty dollars ($150) for each different type of voting machine examined by him which shall be paid by the proper fiscal officer of the Commonwealth upon the proper voucher or certificate of the Secretary of the Commonwealth out of any moneys received as fees for the examination of voting machines

Section 7 Requirements of Voting Machines—No voting machine shall be approved by the Secretary of the Commonwealth or by any examiner appointed by him unless it shall satisfy the following requirements

(a) It shall provide facilities for voting for such candidates as may be nominated and upon such questions as may be submitted

(b) It shall permit each voter at other than primary elections to vote a straight party ticket in one operation and in one operation to vote for all the candidates of one party for presidential electors

(c) It shall permit each voter at other than primary elections to vote a ticket selected from the nominees of any and all parties from independent nominations and from persons not in nomination

(d) It shall permit each voter to vote at any election for any person and for any office for whom and for which he is lawfully entitled to vote whether or not the name of such person appears upon a ballot-label as a candidate for nomination or election an dto vote for as many persons for an office as he is entitled to vote for and to vote for or against any question upon which he is entitled to vote

(e) It shall preclude each voter from voting for any candidate or upon any question for whom or upon which he is not entitled to vote and from voting for more persons for any office than he is entitled to vote for and from voting for any candidate for the same office or upon any question more than once except in districts and for offices where cumulative voting is authorized by law

(f) It shall be capable of adjustment by election officers so as to permit each voter at a primary election to vote only for the candidates for non-partisan nomination if any and for the candidates seeking nominations by the political party in which he is enrolled if he is enrolled as a member of a political party and so as to preclude him from voting for the candidates seeking nomination by any political party in which he is not enrolled

(g) It shall permit each voter to deposit write in or affix upon receptacles or devices provided for the purpose ballots containing the names of persons for whom he desires to vote whose names do not appear upon the machine

(h) It shall permit each voter to change his vote for any candidate or upon any question appearing upon the ballot-labels up to the time he leaves the voting machine

(i) It shall permit and require voting in absolute secrecy and shall be so constructed that no person can see or know for whom any other elector has voted or is voting save a voter whom he has assisted or is assisting in voting as prescribed by law

(j) It shall have voting devices for separate candidates and questions which shall be arranged in separate parallel rows or columns so that at any election one or more adjacent rows or columns may be assigned to the candidates of a party and shall have parallel office columns or rows transverse thereto

(k) It shall have a counter or other device the register of which is visible from the outside of the machine which shall show during any period of voting the total number of voters who have operated the machine during said period of voting

(l) It shall have a protective counter or other device the register of which cannot be reset which shall record the cumulative total number of movements of the operating mechanism

(m) It shall be provided with a lock or locks by the use of which immediately after the polls are closed or the operation of the machine for an election is completed all movement of the registering mechanism is absolutely prevented

(h) It shall be provided with a screen hood or curtain which shall conceal the actions of the voter while voting

(o) It shall be constructed of material of good quality in a neat and workmanlike manner

(p) It shall when properly operated register or record correctly and accurately every vote cast

(q) It shall be so contructed that a voter may readily learn the method of operating it

(r) It shall be safely transportable

(s) It shall be so constructed that each separate voting device which is not to be used at an election may be locked against use during that election

(t) During the progress of voting it shall preclude every person from seeing or knowing the number of votes registered for any candidate and from tampering with any of the registering mechanism

Section 8 Payment for Machines—The county commissioners or such other authority as levies the taxes for county purposes of any county which adopts voting machines or of any county in which a city borough or township is located which adopts voting machines shall upon the purchase thereof provide for payment therefor by the county provided however that bonds or other evidences of indebtedness payable not later than ten years from their dates of issuance may be issued to meet all or any part of the cost of the voting machines

Section 9 Demonstration of Voting Machines—Whenever a referendum is about to be held upon the adoption of voting machines in any county city borough or township the county commissioners shall purchase lease or borrow a reasonable number of voting machines for demonstration purposes in such county city borough or township prior to such referendum

(f) When the same person has been nominated for the same office by more than one political party his name shall appear in the rows or columns containing generally the names of candidates nominated by each such party

(g) The form and arrangement of ballot-labels to be used at any election shall be determined by the Secretary of the Commonwealth as nearly as may be in accordance with the provisions of the laws prescribing the form and arrangement of ballots at such election and shall be furnished by him to the county commissioners who shall procure such further copies of the same as may be necessary at the cost of the county

(h) In primary elections the ballot-labels containing the names of candidates seeking nomination by a political party shall be segregated on the face of the machine in adjacent rows or columns by parties

Section 11 Preparation of Voting Machines by County Commissioners (a) The county commissioners of each county shall cause the proper ballot-labels to be placed on each voting machine which is to be used in any election district within such county and shall cause each machine to be placed in proper order for voting shall examine each machine before it is sent out to a polling-place shall see that each registering counter on each machine is set at zero (000) shall lock each machine so that the counting machinery cannot be operated and shall seal each machine with a numbered seal The county commissioners shall adjust each machine to be used at a primary election so that the election officers may lock it on election day in such a way that each voter can vote only for the candidates for non-partisan nomination if any and for the candidates seeking nomination by the political party in which he is enrolled if he is enrolled as a member of a political party and so that no voter can vote for the candidates seeking nomination by any political party in which he is not enrolled

(b) The county commissioners shall appoint not more than one custodian for every twenty voting machines who shall prepare the machines to be used in the county at the elections to be held therein Each custodian shall receive from the county for each day he is actually employed under the provisions of this act such compensation as shall be fixed by the county commissioners but not less than five dollars or more than ten dollars per day All appointments to fill vacancies shall be made in like manner Such custodians shall under the direction of the county commissioners have charge of and represent the county commissioners during the preparation of the voting machines as required by this act and shall serve at the pleasure of the county commissioners Each custodian shall take the constitutional oath of office which shall be filed with the county commissioners

(c) On or before the thirtieth day preceding an election the county commissioners shall mail to the chairman of the county committee of each political party which shall be entitled under existing laws to participate in primary elections within the county and to the chairman or presiding officer of any organization of citizens within the county having as its purpose or among its purposes the investigation or prosecution of election frauds which has registered its name and address and the names of its principal officers with the county commissioners at least forty days before such election a written notice stating the times when and the place or places where the machines for use in the several election districts in the county will be prepared for use At such times and places one representative of each of such political parties certified by the respective chairmen of the county committees of such parties and one representative of each such organization of citizens certified by the respective chairmen or presiding officers of such organizations shall be entitled to be present and to see that the machines are properly prepared and are placed in proper condition and order for use

(d) The custodian or custodians of voting machines shall make a certificate in writing which each shall sign and request each representative of a party or a citizens' organization as aforesaid present at the preparation of the machine to attest and which shall be filed with the county commissioners stating (1) the identifying number or other designation of the voting machine (2) that each registering counter of the machine was set at zero (000) (3) the number registered on the protective counter or other device of the machine and (4) the number on the seal with which the machine is sealed

(e) No county commissioner nor custodian nor other employe of the county commissioners shall in any way prevent free access to and examination of all voting machines which are to be used at the election by any of the duly appointed representatives aforesaid and the county commissioners and their employes shall afford to each such representative every facility for the examination of all registering counters protective counters and public counters of each and every voting machine

(f) The county commissioners shall furnish at the expense of the county all ballot-labels forms of certificates returns and other papers and supplies required under the provisions of this act all of which shall be in the form and according to the specifications prescribed from time to time by the Secretary of the Commonwealth

Section 12 Delivery of Voting Machines and Supplies by County Commissioners to Election Officers

(a) The county commissioners shall deliver the proper voting machine or voting machines to the polling-places of the respective election districts at least one hour before the time set for opening the polls at an election or primary and shall cause each machine to be set up in the proper manner for use in voting Each machine shall then remain sealed until the examination immediately preceding the opening of the polls prescribed by this act

(b) The county commissioners shall provide ample protection against molestation of and injury to the voting machine and for that purpose shall and may call upon any police or elected peace officer of this Commonwealth to furnish such assistance as may be necessary and it shall be the duty of police and elected peace officers to furnish such assistance when so requested by the county commissioners

(c) The county commissioners shall furnish at the expense of the county and deliver with each voting machine

(1) A lantern or a proper substitute for one which shall give sufficient light to enable voters while in the voting machine booth to read the ballot-labels and suitable for the use of election officers in examining the counters The lantern or proper substitute therefor shall be prepared and in good order for use before the opening of the polls

(2) Two diagrams or sample ballots of suitable size representing such part of the face of such voting machine as will be in use in the election and accompanied by illustrated directions for voting on the machine Such diagrams shall be posted prominently outside the enclosed space within the polling-place

(3) A mechanically operated model of a portion of the face of a voting machine for the instruction of electors Such model shall be placed in the polling-place and at or outside of the guard-rail

(4) A seal for sealing the machine after the polls are closed an envelope for the return of the keys if the construction of the voting machine shall permit their separate return and such other election materials and supplies as may be necessary or as may be required by law

Section 13 Number of Election Officers—(a) The election board in each election district in which a voting machine is used shall consist of a judge of election and two inspectors of election chosen as is now provided by law There shall be no clerks on election boards in voting machine districts

(b) Where more than one machine is to be used in an election district two machine inspectors shall be appointed one by each of the inspectors of election who shall receive the same compensation as inspectors of election and whose duty it shall be to have charge of the operation of the voting machines under the supervision of the judge of election

Section 14 Instruction of Election Officers—Before each election at which voting machines are to be used the custodians shall instruct in the use of the machine and in their duties in connection therewith all judges and inspectors of election who are to serve thereat and who have not previously been instructed and found qualified and they shall give to each judge and inspector who has received such instruction and is fully qualified to conduct the election with the machine a certificate to that effect For the purpose of giving such instruction the custodians shall call such meeting or meetings of the judges and inspectors as shall be necessary Each judge and inspector shall upon notice attend any such meeting or meetings called for his instruction and receive such instructions as shall be necessary for the proper conduct of the elections with the machine and as compensation for the time spent in receiving such instructions each judge and inspector who shall qualify for and serve in the election shall receive the sum of five dollars to be paid to him at the same time and in the same manner as compensation is paid to him for his services on election day No judge or inspector of election shall serve in any election at which a voting machine is used unless he shall have received such instruction and is fully qualified to perform his duties in connection with the machine and has received a certificate to that effect from the custodians of the machines Provided however That this shall not prevent the appointment of a judge or inspector of election to fill a vacancy arising on the day of election or on the preceding day

Section 15 Examination of Machine at Polling-Place and Final Preparation Thereof—(a) The county commissioners shall deliver the keys which unlock the operating mechanism and the registering counters or counter compartment of the voting machine to the judge of election not earlier than noon the Saturday preceding an election nor later than three-quarters of an hour before the time set for the opening of the polls and shall take his receipt therefor The keys shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope on which shall be written or printed (1) the number of the voting machine (2) the name or designation of the election district (3) the number of the seal and (4) the number registered on the protective counter or device as reported by the custodian

(b) No election officer shall open an envelope so delivered until the minority inspector shall be present in the polling-place and shall have examined the envelope to see that it has not been opened

(c) Before opening the envelope all the election officers present shall examine the number on the seal on the machine and the number registered on the protective counter or device and shall see whether they are the same as the numbers written on the envelope containing the keys If either number shall be found not to agree the envelope shall remain unopened until the election officers shall have notified the proper custodian of voting machines or the county commissioners and until the custodian or some other person authorized by the county commissioners shall have presented himself at the polling-place for the purpose of re-examining the machine and shall have certified that it is properly arranged

(d) But if the numbers on the seal and the protective counter or device shall be found to agree with the numbers on the envelope the election officers shall examine the registering counters and for that purpose shall open the doors concealing such counters if the construction of the voting machine shall so require and before the polls are opened the judge and each inspector shall carefully examine every counter and shall see that it registers zero (000) and shall allow the watchers to examine the counters

(e) If the ballot-labels containing the names of offices parties candidates and questions shall not be in their proper places on the voting machine the election officers forthwith shall notify the proper custodian of voting machines or the county commissioners and the machine shall not be used until the custodian or some other person authorized by the county commissioners shall have supplied ballot-labels as herein prescribed If the ballot-labels for a voting machine shall not be delivered at the time required or if after delivery they shall be lost destroyed or stolen the county commissioners or custodian shall cause other ballot-labels to be prepared printed or written as nearly in the form of the official ballot-labels as practicable and shall cause such ballot-labels to be used in the same manner as nearly as may be as the official ballot-labels would have been used

(f) The judge and each inspector of election shall sign a certificate showing (1) the delivery of the keys in a sealed envelope (2) the number on the seal upon the machine (3) the number registered on the protective counter or device (4) that all of the counters were set at zero (000) and (5) that the ballot-labels are properly placed in the machine which certificate shall be returned by the judge of election to the county commissioners with the other papers as hereinafter provided

(g) The machine shall remain locked against voting until the polls are opened and shall not be operated except by voters in voting If any counter is found not to register zero (000) the election officers shall immediately notify the custodian or the county commissioners who shall if practicable adjust or cause the counters to be adjusted at zero (000) but if it shall be found impracticable for the custodian or other person authorized by the county commissioners to arrive in time so to adjust such counters before the time set for opening the polls the election officers shall immediately make a written record of the designation or designating letter or number of each counter together with the number registered thereon and shall sign and post the same upon the wall of the polling-place where it shall remain until the polls are closed and in filling out the returns of the election they shall subtract such number from the number registered on the same counter when the polls are closed

(h) The exterior of the voting machine and every part of the polling-place shall be in plain view of the election officers and watchers The voting machine shall be located in the polling-place at least six feet back of the guard-rail in such a position that unless its construction shall require otherwise the ballot-labels on the face of the machine can be seen plainly by the election officers and watchers when the machine is not occupied by a voter The election officers shall not themselves be nor allow any other person to be in any position that will permit one to see or ascertain how a voter votes or how he has voted The election officers or one of them shall inspect the face of the machine at frequent intervals to see that the ballot labels are in their proper places and that the machine has not been injured or tampered with

(i) During an election the door or other covering of the compartment containing the counters of the machine shall not be unlocked or opened or the counters exposed except by action of the proper custodian of voting machines for good and sufficient reason a statement of which shall be made in writing and signed by him and attested by the signatures of the election officers or except upon the written order of the county commissioners for good and sufficient reason which shall be stated in the order

Section 16 Instruction of Voters Before an Election—(a) During the sixty days next preceding an election the county commissioners may place on public exhibition in any public place and at such times as they may deem desirable one or more voting machines containing the ballot-labels and showing the offices and questions to be voted upon the names and arrangement of parties and so far as practicable the names and arrangement of the candidates to be voted for Such machine or machines shall be under the charge and care of a person competent as custodian and instructor No voting machine which is to be assigned for use in an election shall be used for such public exhibition and instruction after having been prepared and sealed for the election

(b) During such public exhibition and instruction the counting mechanism of the voting machine shall be concealed from view and the doors or cover concealing the same shall be opened if at all only temporarily and only upon written authorization from the county commissioners

(c) Prior to any election the county commissioners may cause copies of any diagram or diagrams required to be furnished with voting machines at polling-places to be made either in full size or in reduced size and to be posted published advertised or distributed among the electors in such manner as they may deem desirable

Section 17 Instruction and Assistance of Voters on Election Day—(a) The election officers shall with the aid of the diagrams herein authorized and the mechanically operated model instruct each voter before he enters the voting machine booth regarding the operation of the machine and shall give the voter opportunity personally to operate the model

(b) No voter shall be permitted to receive any assistance in voting at any election unless he shall first state distinctly and audibly under oath or affirmation which shall be administered to him by the judge of election that he cannot read the names on the voting machine or that by reason of physical disability he is unable to see the machine or prepare it for voting or to enter the voting machine booth without assistance The voter shall state the specific physical disability which requires him to receive assistance Thereupon he shall be permitted by the judge of election to select a qualified voter of the election district to aid him in voting and the judge of election shall forthwith enter in writing on the record of assisted voters (1) the voter's name (2) the fact that the voter cannot read the names on the voting machine if that be the reason for requiring assisance and otherwise the specific physical disability which requires him to receive assistance and (3) the name of the person furnishing the assistance but

(c) If any voter after entering the voting machine booth shall ask for further instructions concerning the manner of voting he may choose an election officer or any qualified voter of the district who shall give him such instructions but no person giving a voter such instructions shall in any manner request suggest or seek to persuade or induce any such voter to vote any particular ticket or for any particular candidate or for or against any particular question After giving such instructions and before the elector votes the election officer or qualified voter shall retire and the voter shall forthwith vote

Section 18 Manner of Voting (a) The election officers shall ascertain as required by law whether each applicant to vote is entitled to vote If he is found to be entitled to vote and not otherwise the election officer in charge of the ballot check list shall insert therein opposite the voter's name the letter B and shall enter his name on one of the numbered lists of voters and he shall be admitted within the voting machine booth and shall be permitted to vote

(b) The election officers shall permit within the enclosed space at any one time not more than twice as many voters waiting to vote as there are voting machines in use in said district

(c) No voter shall remain within the voting machine booth an unreasonable length of time and if he shall refuse to leave after a reasonable period he shall be removed by the election officers Provided however That they may grant him a longer time if other voters are not waiting to vote

(d) As soon as a voter leaves the voting machine booth the election officer in charge of the voting check list shall insert the letter V opposite his name therein and shall enter his name on the other numbered list of voters

(e) In primary elections before a voter is admitted to the voting machine it shall be adjusted by the election officer in charge thereof so that such voter will only be able to vote for the candidates of the party in which he is enrolled and for candidates for non-partisan nomination if any

(f) It shall be the duty of the judge of election and machine inspectors if any to have especial charge of the operation of the voting machine and to see that the provisions of this section are enforced

Section 19 Voting for a Person Other Than a Nominated Candidate—(a) No irregular ballot shall be cast on a voting machine for any person for any office whose name does not appear as a candidate nominated for that office except it be deposited written or affixed in or upon the appropriate receptacle or device provided in or on the machine for that purpose

(b) Where two or more persons are to be elected to the same office and the name of each candidate is placed upon or adjacent to a separate key handle pointer or knob and the voting machine requires that all irregular ballots voted for that office be deposited written or affixed in or upon a single receptacle or device a voter may vote in or by such receptacle or device for one or more persons whose names do not appear upon the machine with or without the names of one or more persons whose names do so appear

(c) With these exceptions no irregular ballot shall be cast on a voting machine for any person for any office whose name appears on the machine as a nominated candidate for that office Any ballot so cast shall be void and not counted

(d) Nothing in this section contained shall prevent the use of ballots at any election when and as permitted by sections twenty-one and twenty-two of this act

Section 20 Voting for Presidential Electors—(a) At any general election at which presidential electors are to be chosen each elector shall be permitted to vote by one operation for all the presidential electors of a party For each party nominating presidential electors a ballot-label shall be provided containing only the words "Presidential Electors" preceded by the name of the party and followed by the names of the candidates thereof for the offices of President and Vice-President and the corresponding counter or registering device shall register votes cast for said electors when thus voted for collectively

(b) If an elector desires to vote a ticket made up of the names of persons nominated by different parties or partially of names of persons so in nomination and partially of names of persons not in nomination by any party he may write or deposit a paper ballot prepared by himself in the receptacle provided in or on the machine for the purpose

(c) The machine shall be so constructed that it will not be possible for any one voter to vote a straight ticket for presidential electors and at the same time to deposit a ballot for presidential electors in a receptacle as hereinabove provided

(d) When the votes for presidential electors are counted the votes appearing upon the counter or registering device corresponding to the ballot-label containing the names of the candidates for President and Vice-President of any party shall be counted as votes for each of the candidates for presidential elector of such party and thereupon all candidates for presidential electors shall be credited in addition with the votes cast for them upon the ballots deposited in the machine as hereinabove provided

Section 21 Voting by Ballot If a method of election for any candidates or offices is prescribed by law in which the use of voting machines is not possible or practicable or in case at any election the number of candidates nominated or seeking nomination for any office renders the use of voting machines for such office at such election impracticable the county commissioners may arrange to have the voting for such candidates or offices conducted by paper ballots In such cases ballots shall be printed for such candidates or offices and the election conducted by the election officers herein provided for and the ballots counted and return thereof made in the manner required by law for such candidates or offices in so far as paper ballots are used

Section 22 Unofficial Ballot-Labels Repair of Machine or Use of Paper Ballots (a) If ballot-labels for an election district at which a voting machine is to be used shall not be delivered to the election officers as required by section fifteen (e) of this act the judge of election of such district shall cause other labels to be prepared printed or written as nearly in the form of official ballot-labels as practicable and the election officers shall cause the labels so substituted to be used at the election in the same manner as near as may be as the official labels Such labels so substituted shall be known as unofficial ballot-labels

(b) If any voting machine being used in any election shall become out of order during such election it shall if possible be repaired or another machine substituted by the custodian or county commissioners as promptly as possible for which purpose the county commissioners may purchase as many extra voting machines as they may deem necessary but in case such repair or substitution cannot be made paper ballots printed or written and of any suitable form may be used for the taking of votes

Section 23 Canvass of Vote and Disposition of Machine-- When the polls are closed all qualified voters who are then waiting within the voting room to vote shall be permitted by the election officers to do so As soon as the polls are closed and the last voter has voted the election officers shall immediatly lock the voting machine against voting and shall then sign a certificate stating (1) that the machine has been locked against voting and sealed (2) the number of voters as shown on the public counters (3) the number on the seal which they have placed upon the machine (4) the number registered on the protective counter or device and (5) that the voting machine is closed and locked The election officers shall compare the number of voters as shown by the machine with the number of names written in the numbered lists of voters which lists shall then be placed in envelopes and sealed The election officers in the presence of the watchers and all other persons who may be lawfully within the polling-place shall then make visible the registering counters and for that purpose shall unlock and open the doors or outer covering concealing the same giving full view of all the counter numbers The judge of election shall under the scrutiny of the majority and minority inspectors and the watchers and in the order of the offices as their titles are arranged on the machine read and announce in distinct tones the designation or designating number and letter on each counter for each cadidate's name the result as shown by the counter numbers the votes recorded for each office for persons other than nominated candidates and the designation or designating numbers and letters on each counter and the results as shown by the counter numbers for and against each question voted on The counters shall not be read consecutively along the party rows or columns but shall always be read along the office columns or rows completing the canvass for each office or question before proceeding to the next The vote as registered shall be entered by the election officers in ink on duplicate return sheets and also on a general return sheet and statement and shall be signed by the election officers The vote for presidential electors shall be computed and returned as provided hereinbefore in section 19 of this act The registering counters of the voting machine shall remain exposed to view until the said returns and all other reports have been fully completed and checked by the inspectors During such time any candidate or duly accredited watcher who may desire to be present shall be admitted to the polling place The proclamation of the result of the votes cast shall be announced distinctly and audibly by the judge of election who shall read the name of each candidate the designation or designating numbers and letters of his counters and the vote registered on each counter also the vote cast for and against each question submitted During such proclamation ample opportunity shall be given to any person lawfully present to compare the results so announced with the counter dials of the machine and any necessary corrections shall then and there be made by the election officers after which the doors or other cover of the voting machine shall be closed and locked Immediately upon the close of the polls the election officers shall so lock or seal the operating lever or mechanism of the machine that the voting and counting mechanism will be prevented from operation Any ballots deposited written or affixed in or upon the voting machine shall be inclosed in properly sealed packages and properly indorsed and shall be delivered by the judge of election as hereinafter provided The judge of election shall promptly deliver to the county commissioners or their duly authorized representative the keys of the voting machine inclosed in a sealed envelope if the construction of the voting machine shall permit their separate return said envelope shall have indorsed thereon a certificate of the election officers stating the number of the machine the election district where it has been used the number on the seal and the number on the protective counter or device at the close of the polls As soon as possible after the completion of the count the county commissioners shall have the voting machine properly boxed and removed to the place or places of storage provided for in this act

Section 24 Return of Votes The general return sheet duplicate return sheets and statement shall be printed to conform with the type of voting machine used and in form approved by the Secretary of the Commonwealth The designating number and letter if any on the counter for each candidate shall be printed thereon opposite the candidate's name Immediately after the vote has been ascertained the statement thereof shall be posted on the door of the polling place The minority inspector shall retain one of said duplicate return sheets one numbered list of voters sealed as aforesaid the voting check list (in districts other than cities) and one set of oaths of election officers and other affidavits The other duplicate return sheet numbered list of voters oaths of election officers and affidavits of voters and others and the ballot check list (in districts other than cities) shall be sealed up and given to the judge of election who shall deliver them together with the general return sheet and the package of ballots deposited written or affixed in or upon the voting machine to the prothonotary in the case of general municipal or special elections and to the county commissioners in the case of primary elections provided that returns of elections for borough and township officers shall be made to the officer directed by law to receive them

Section 25 Preservation of Ballots and of Record of the Machine The voting machine shall remain locked against voting for the thirty days next following each election and as much longer as may be necessary or advisable because of any existing or threatened contest over the result of the election with due regard for the date of the next following election except that it may be opened and all the data and figures therein examined upon the order of any court of competent jurisdiction or judge thereof or by direction of any legislative committee to investigate and report upon contested elections affected by the use of such machine and such data and such figures shall be examined by such committee in the presence of the officer having the custody of such machine

Section 26 Provision for Recanvass of Vote Whenever it shall appear that there is a discrepancy in the returns of any election district or upon petition of three voters of any district verified by affidavit that an error although not apparent on the face of the returns has been committed therein the court of common pleas board of county commissioners or other return board shall at any time prior to the completion of the computation of all of the returns for the county summon the election officers of the district and said officers in the presence of said court or board shall make a record of the number of the seal upon the voting machine and the number on the protective counter or other device shall make visible the registering counters of such machine and without unlocking the machine against voting shall re-canvass the vote cast thereon Before making such re-canvass the said court or board shall give notice in writing to the proper custodian of voting machines and to each candidate and to county chairman of each party or independent nominating body affected by the canvass and each such candidate may be present in person or by attorney and each of such parties or nominating bodies may send two representatives to be present at such re-canvass If upon such re-canvass it shall be found that the original canvass of the returns has been correctly made from the machine and that the discrepancy still remains unaccounted for the said court or board with the assistance of the custodian in the presence of the election officers and the authorized candidates and representatives shall unlock the voting and counting mechanism of the machine and shall proceed thoroughly to examine and test the machine to determine and reveal the true cause or causes if any of the discrepancy in returns from such machine Each counter shall reset at zero (000) before it is tested after which it shall be operated at least one hundred times After the completion of such examination and test the custodian shall then and there prepare a statement in writing giving in detail the result of the examination and test and such statement shall be witnessed by the persons present and shall be filed with the said court or board If upon such re-canvass it shall appear that the original canvass of the returns by the election officers was incorrect the said returns and all papers being prepared by the said court or board shall be corrected accordingly

Section 27 Custody of Voting Machines and Keys (a) The county commissioners shall designate a person or persons who shall have the custody of the voting machines of the county city borough or township and the keys therefor when the machines are not in use at an election and shall provide for his compensation and for the safe storage and care of the machines and keys

(b) All voting machines when not in use shall be properly boxed or covered and stored in a suitable place

MEMORIAL SERVICES ON THE DEATH OF HONORABLE EDWARD E. PFISHNER, LATE SENATOR FROM THE FORTIETH DISTRICT.

The Senate met at three o'clock p. m.

The LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR (Hon. Arthur H. James) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. This being the time fixed by resolution for holding memorial services on the death of Honorable Edward E. Pfischner, late Senator from the Fortieth District, the Senate will be in order and will be opened with prayer by the Chaplain.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Christian H. Shirk, offered the following prayer:

Our gracious Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the sympathy which Thou hast for us in our sorrows. Thou dost ever take a fatherly interest in us. "As a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear Him."

We appreciate this sympathy of Thine all the more when our sorrows are caused by the vacant chairs in our family groups and in other groups, when the voices that we loved to hear have become hushed.

We have met today to express the honor and esteem which we have held and do hold for Senator Pfischner, and we would cherish his memory on this occasion. We regret that his life, so full of promise, came to an end at such an early period, when he was at the open threshold of a life of larger usefulness and honor and service.

We pray Thy blessing to rest upon the members of his bereaved family. We ask Thee to give to them Thy sustaining grace; and do Thou speak words of cheer to them, as Thou alone canst speak.

And we pray that this Easter Season just before us may be one of great comfort to them, and may they realize that he has gone into a world of larger freedom, of larger opportunity in which he can realize the highest ambitions of his heart and mind. And may it ease their heasts to have the hope that they will see their loved one again.

We ask for all of these mercies in Thy most holy name, Amen.

The PRESIDENT. Members of the Senate, it is indeed fitting and proper that in the midst of the humdrum and busy life that we lead as part of the law-making body of this great Commonwealth, that we should set aside just a short time to place a wreath of loving remembrance and affection upon the memories of those who have been part of this great body, and by the expressions that we give here to at least indicate to the loved members of their families that during their day and time they played the game well, that they left their impress upon us, and that in our hearts there is a love and loving remembrance of their activities.

In Senator Pfischner's life and death we have a striking illustration of the fact that in the midst of life we are in death. Just at the happiest moment of his life,— when eager winds were kissing every sail to dash against the unseen rocks and in a moment hear the rush and roar of the billows underneath,—what a sad occasion it was to that loving wife and thoes loved children that this loving father should have been called away.

His experiece and his time was but a short period with us, but in that period he so ingratiated himself into our lives and our hearts that we felt a sense of deep personal loss when the sad news came to us that he had been called to the Great Beyond. And it is only a just and a proper thing that we on this occasion, in solemn manner, should show our sense of appreciation and affection for him.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President and Members of the Senate of the family of Edward E. Pfischner, to me this is an occasion of deep regret. When the Honorable Edward E. Pfiscnner, member of the Senate from the Fortieth district, died I lost a friend and this body was deprived of a young legislator with the promise of a brilliant career, and the great district which he represented lost the services of a capable young man who understood the needs of the people and had made full resolve to give the best that was in him to meet the desires of his constituency.

Senator Pfischner came from a prominent family, [illegible] members for several generations had taken a leading part in the industrial life of the community.

His grandfather founded the E .T. Lippert Saw Company and with that industry our young friend cast his fortune. He was capable and industrious, and by dint of hard work and sincere effort he had attained to the post of assistant manager of his noted manufacturing company. He died as he would have wished to die, active to the very end.

Senator Pfischner was at beginning of his career, a young man with hosts of friends, with great promises of a brilliant business and political future. He visited the capitol with his family just a few short days before he died, and he was proud of the opportunity which permitted him to sit within these walls as a servant of the people. He had just served one-half of his term, having been elected in 1926; and he looked forward with much enthusiasm to his work here for the people of his district.

He was born i nthe borough of Millvale, Allegheny county, on October 8, 1897, and he died on Tuesday, August 28, 1928, in the 31st year of his age.

Mr. LESLIE offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

In the Senate, March 26, 1929.

Whereas, on August 28, 1928, the Honorable Edward Earnest Pfischner, member of the Senate of Pennsylvania, from the Fortieth District, was called suddenly from this life just as he was beginning a career of promise and usefulness in this body, and

Whereas, this Commonwealth and this Senate were deprived of the services and talents of one who had taken a leading part in the business and political life of his home community, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate give formal expression of the loss it has sustained by the death of our colleague, and be it further

Resolved, That the heartfelt sympathy of the members of this body be extended to the bereaved family, and be it

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Senate and that a copy, properly engrossed and attested, be forward to the family.

Committee:
HERMAN P. BRANDT, (Chairman,)
M. G. LESLIE,
MORRIS EINSTEIN,
WILLIAM D. MANSFIELD,
JAMES J. COYNE,
FRANK J. HARRIS.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. BRANDT. Mr. President and Members of the Pennsylvania Senate. The death of Senator Pfischner cut short a life, a young life, that had given much promise of future advancement in the channels incident to public life. Elected to this august body at an extremely young age, he quickly demonstrated that he possessed one characteristic that always shines like a beacon in any man's life—loyalty to a friend and friends that had created him in a political sense. He was a follower of Senator Leslie, and he was unwavering in his loyalty to his Chief. With that one thing, I do not hesitate to commend him in the highest terms, because when a man is sincerely grateful, he exhibits his gratitude when it is most needed—thereby rising to the eminence of being a man among men. He was an ambitious young man, and his goal, as I understand, was to be the next Sheriff of Allegheny County. I learn that he was in a fair way to realize that ambition, and a great banquet had been arranged in his honor and the day was set, when, like a bolt out of the blue sky, came the Great Summons, and he went away to join the great army that had gone on before him. As his colleague in the Senate, I respected him; our district touched in the great manufacturing valley of the Monongahela, and I knew him as a fearless, conscientious and, above all, a loyal Senator. It is both with pleasure and sadness that I pronounce these few words at this Memorial service held in his honor.

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, if I were to keep my seat and silently let this occasion pass, I would feel remiss in my duty.

Upon such an occasion, it is hard to find words to fittingly express our feelings and emotions. In fact we feel the utter poverty of words. When a member of this Senate takes his departure, it is something we cannot understand—a thing too great for our minds to grasp—a part of the infinite which we as finite creatures can never comprehend.

The death of Senator Edward Pfischner was to me a severe shock. At the time the news of his death was conveyed to me, I could scarcely realize that he was dead. It did not seem possible that he had passed away. For a number of years I had known him intimately and it had been my pleasure to work for him in his contest for election to the Senate. From the time that he reached his majority, he took an active part in all of the affairs of his community. His life was good and decent and clean. All of those who met him or came into contact with him became his friends. He possessed to the highest degree that trait which we all so admire, extreme loyalty to his friends. He was always in earnest and self sacrificing and untiring in his labor for his constituents and never shrank from the duty that lay before him however burdensome it might be. He accepted the office of State Senator with a keen appreciation of the duties and responsibilities of the position and with the determination to give to the discharge of his duties the fullest measure of service of which he was capable.

It is always and when any any of the members of this body pass into the great beyond, but that sadness is multiplied when one so young as was Senator Pfischner receives the call. The words of one of the most beautiful eulogies ever written seem to be most appropriate here.

"While yet in love with life and raptured with the world he passed in silence and pathetic dust. Yet, after all, it may be best, just in the happiest sunniest hour of all the voyage, while eager winds are kissing every sial ,to dash afainst the unseen rock, and in an instant hear the billows roar above a sunken ship. For whether in mid-sea or 'mong the breakers of the farther shore a wreck at last must mark the end of each and all."

When we contemplate the death of one of our number we come more seriously to realize that:

Some night the stars will gleam,
Upon a cold, grey stone,
And trace a name with silver beam,
And lo! 'Twill be my own.
The night is speeding on to greet
My epitaphic rhyme
My life is but a little beat
Within the heart of time.

A little gain, a little pain,
A laugh lest I should moan;
A little blame, a little fame,
A star-gleam on a stone.

Personally I have lost a valued friend; the Senate of Pennsylvania has lost a faithful, valuable, and useful member; the members who have enjoyed an intimate personal acquaintance with him have lost a lovable companion.

Although he has passed beyond the range of finite vision and we shall never again behold his face, yet in that pale blue land beyond the skies where heaven lifts its everlasting portals high he lives. His day is done, but its beauty shall never fade and through the dark watches of the night an endless memory will be the companion of his relatives and friends.

As I said in the beginning, at such a time there is little one can say, but is it not all summed up when we say, "He was a man," and whatever our personal beliefs may be as to the hereafter, we can meet upon one common ground that.

Whether to wonder with stars or rest,
Forever hushed and dumb,
He gave with a zest,
And he gave his best,
And deserves the best to come.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President and Members of the Senate and family of the late Edward E. Pfischner. The news of Eddie Pfischner's death came as a great shock to all of us. Many of us were unaware of his illness. As many of you know, he was stricken down in the very springtime of his life, when his whole life was before him. A great career was before this, lovabale character, Eddie Pfischner.

I believe that outside of Senator Leslie, it was my good fortune to come in contact with this remarkable young man more often than any other member of this body. He was seated directly behind me during the period of his brief term in this august body, and I observed him because I had gone through the same thing in my life that he was going through then, because of my good fortune to be elected to public office at a very early age; and I observed the kindly nature, the modest demeanor of this young man;—but the thing which struck me more forcibly than anything else was the fact that I never saw Eddie Pfischner alone; he was continually surrounded by his friends, his loving, devoted, faithful friends.

Then his home life—I know how his wonderful wife and his father looked upon him with the hope and ambitions that they naturally felt for a young man who was just coming up. He was stricken down in the beginning of a very promising career. With his fine nature, his friendly disposition and his mdoest manner no one here knows to what heights he might have risen; but the good Lord saw fit to take him away.

These thoughts of death lead us to mysteries—we can never understand why the Lord should take away those who have all of life before them. He was a boy, and had a boy's future before him; he looked upon life as a boy. We can never understand these things, as I have said; but we must admit that we know the will of God is right, and we can just say now, in conclusion, "Thy will be done."

Mr. WEINGARTNER. Mr. President, Senators of Pennsylvania and relatives and friends of Senator Pfischner, I would feel I had not done my full duty without saying just a word in honor of the memory of Senator Pfischner. I had no acquaintance with Senator Pfischner until he entered the Senate in the Session of 1927. The Senator represented the district adjoining mine, and during that Session of 1927 we had many matters in common and many interests of legislation, representing as we did, very much the same class of district and same kind of people. It was a great pleasure, Mr. President, to associate here with Senator Pfischner on the floor and in the work of the Senate. It is not often that a man as young as he is elected to this body. It is very seldom that a man of his age, so elected, as quickly grasps the duties and responsibilties of this body and as quickly develops into such an active member of the Senate of Pennsylvania.

Senator Pfischner in all his dealings with the Senate was always courteous, always a gentleman, always considerate and always interested in the welfare of his own district and in legislation that had at heart the best interests not only of his own district but of the entire Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I have some acquaintance, not a great deal, but some very close friends in his home town, whom I have known for many years, and I know something of the love and esteem in which he was held by his friends and neighbors; and, it was a great shock to me when the news came over the wire that Senator Pfischner had passed on.

Mr. President, in his home tow,n as I stood at his bier I saw the great outpouring of friends and acquaintances that had known him all his life from his boyhood up, and it was the finest tribute that could be paid to any man in any position.

These associations, Mr. President, that we make here run all through the years, and the fellowship of the members of this body is most precious to me. I, too, with Senator Harris, feel the death of this distinguished young Senator from an adjoining district as a distinct personal loss. But there is no turning back, and we must carry on the work with grateful remembrance of those members of this body that have passed on. We must travel, Mr. President, to the end of the trail.

We must travel the miles till the journey is done,
  Whatsoever the turn of the way;
We shall bring up at last at the set of the sun,
  And shall rest at the close of the day.
Let us deal as we journey with foeman and friend
  In a way that no man can assail,
And find nothing but peace at the roadway's last bend.
  When we come to the end of the trail.

We are brothers who travel a great, common road,
  And the journey is easy for none;
We must succor the weary and lift on the load
  Of the pilgrim whose courage is done.
Let me deal with them each on my way to the West
  With a mercy that never shall fail,
And lie down to my dreams with a conscience at rest
  When I come to the end of the trail.

And the question recurring.

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I move that the memorial session of the Senate do now adjourn.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

MEMORIAL SERVICES ON THE DEATH OF HONORABLE W. HARRY BAKER, LATE SECRETARY OF THE SENATE.

The Senate met at four o'clock p. m.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. Horace W. Schantz) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. This being the time fixed by resolution for holding the memorial services on the death of Honorable W. Harry Baker, late Secretary of the Senate, the Senate will be in order and will be opened with prayer by the Chaplain.

The Chaplain, Rev. Christian H. Shirk, offered the following prayer:

Our gracious God, we have met to do honor to one of the true noblemen of our Commonwealth, our former Secretary of the Senate, W. Harry Baker, who left behind him cherished memories, and a large number of saddened hearts.

We rejoice in the privilege of having known this honored man, and of having enjoyed his fine friendship.

We remember the untiring way in which he served his Commonwealth and the fidelity with which he performed the duties of his respective offices.

We rejoice in the noble character of which he was possessed, for the brotherly sympathy he manifested toward all who had association with him, for the willingness of his heart to render whatever assistance he could to all who came within the circle of his influence.

We thank Thee for the heroic way he met any of life's disappointments and the impartial way he treated both those who agreed with him and those who disagreed.

We pray Thy blessing upon the sorrowing members of his family, who feel a greater loss than any others. May they find their source of comfort in Thee.

We do not ask to understand the mysteries of Thy divine Providence in his untimely removal; we merely ask that Thou mayst make us submissive to Thy holy will, and enable us to dedicate our lives to the unfinished tasks of those who have gone before.

We ask for these mercies in the name of our Lord. Amen.

Mr. EARNEST offered the following resolution which was twice read:

W. HARRY BAKER, son of James and Amanda Amelia Baker, was born in Harrisburg March 30, 1874. He died on July 5, 1927. On September 28, 1899, he was married to Sarah Grace Morley, daughter of Thomas W. and Eva Morley, of Marysville, Pennsylvania. He left to survive him his widow and two sons, Morley W., who was born August 29, 1905, and W. Harry, Jr., who was born August 24, 1910.

On January 1, 1889, when less than fifteen years of age, he entered the service of the Commonwealth as a page in the Senate, and continued in public service from that time to the time of his last illness and death. Serving as page and chief page in successive sessions of the Senate, with employment during the interims in the Senate Library and as messenger, he was appointed Assistant Clerk of the Senate on May 10, 1901. On April 12, 1905, he was appointed Assistant Chief Clerk of the Senate and served in that capacity until March 1, 1911, when he was elected Secretary of the Senate; and by re-election from time to time held that position until the time of his death.

In 1909 Honorable W. R. Andrews, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, appointed him Secretary of the Committee. For a short time after Chairman Andrews' death on February 5, 1910, he acted as Chairman of the Committee, and in June, 1910, was elected to the position of Secretary, which office he held until June 10, 1922, when he was elected to the Chairmanship, holding that office from 1922 to 1926.

From 1909 until 1922, when the State purchased the copyright, Honorable Herman P. Miller and he compiled the State Manual or Smull's Handbook. For many years he was a member with his Senate Librarian colleague of the active real estate firm of Miller Brothers and Baker, in Harrisburg, a firm which these gentlemen established but from which Mr. Baker retired some years before his death.

Harry Baker was said to have had the largest acquaintance of any man in Pennsylvania. He was distinguished for his remarkable memory, never needing to make more than a mental note of the innumerable matters requiring his attention,—he neglected no duty. "None was so large as to daunt him or so small as to escape his notice."

He had a very genius for friendship, "That highest compact between men," "Mysterious cement of the soul!" "Sweetener of life!"

Harry Baker is gone. Another niche in the silent halls of time has ben filled, while the Senate of Pennsylvania whose parliamentarian, mentor, guide and friend he was, will never more hear his voice nor grasp his hand; but until the last Senator who knew him has gone the way of all flesh, his memory will ever be held in sweetest remembrance.

Therefore, BE IT RESOLVED, that this minute be made upon the life and death of W. Harry Baker, a distinguished son of Pennsylvania, a most unusual type of public servant, a friend of surpassing loveliness;

And, RESOLVED, that we extend to his family our deepest and most profound sympathy, knowing that they know, as we know, that Harry Baker's life was most worthwhile.

And, BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that a copy of these resolution, duly engrossed and attested, be forwarded to his family.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR ARTHUR H. JAMES. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, it is with mingled feelings of sadness and joy that I arise on this occasion to pay a loving tribute of respect and affection to the memory of W. Harry Baker—sadness in that he has gone to that great realm of the Choir Invisible, and joy in that it was my privilege to regard W. Harry Baker as my friend.

It is indeed most fitting and proper that the Senate of Pennsylvania should set aside just a brief moment in order that we may pay a just and loving tribute to those of our number who gave of the last full measure of their devotion. And in order that we may pay that just tribute to W. Harry Baker it may be said that in the performance of his duty during the Session of 1927 he gave the last full measure of his devotion; and it was indeed a sacrifice upon the altar of public duty, because those who were acquainted with his condition at that time know and realize that had he been less interested, less active in the performance of his duties, the probabilities are that today he would be in full health and strength; but he considered public duty to be the highest and best and the proper thing for him to do.

On an occasion of this kind, when we follow the custom to memorialize our departed friends, we are indeed keeping in close touch with that realm to which we all shall go; and it reminds us of a custom of the fisherfolk who live on the shores of the Adriatic Sea, who, at the close of the day, sing a beautiful melody; and as their wives sing on the shores of that sea, the sound of that melody goes over the water and it is answered by the fishermen themselves, out in their boats.

And so, this afternoon we are encouraged, I know, by the sweet, angelic voice and the memory of this great soul who has passed beyond, and the things that we say and do this afternoon are indeed wafted to us from that Choir Invisible.

We gather today to pay a just and loving tribute to a man who attained in his life to those attributes longed for in the aspirations of us all. He had the great quality of service. When a man is willing to give up his life in behalf of his friend, it may be said, as was said by the Great Apostle, to be the greatest sacrifice a man may make; and when a man will sacrifice not only his physical being but his ambitions, and position in life, that is the type of loyal sacrifice that this friend of ours exemplified in his life.

Service, that word that is bandied back and forth, has a new, a real significance these days, and I know of no man who in his life typified the spirit of service as did W. Harry Baker.

I sometimes wondered what the letter "W" in his name stood for, but now I have no doubt it meant "willing,"—Harry Baker, willing to serve the highest and humblest who came and sought assistance. We all know it,—more so than the great number of the people of the Commonwealth; but to the people of this great State and this great nation he gave of his all, and no man in public life in the State of Pennsylvania for the last thirty years has left his impress more than has W. Harry Baker.

Well may it be said that a just man has passed. In the prime of his life he was carried away; and to those of us who are left, the sweet memory, the great comfort, the strong consolation we have is that we knew W. Harry Baker.

"Long, long be my heart with such memories fill'd!
Like the vase, in which roses have once been distill'd—
You may break, you may shatter the vase, if you will,
But the scent of the roses will hang round it still."

And although Harry Baker has gone and the vase of his life is shattered, well may it be said that the scent of the roses clings round his memory still; and that type of a life will indeed be an inspiration and hope to us for all the rest of our lives.

"We tread the paths their feet have worn,
We sit beneath their orchard trees,
We hear, like them, the hum of bees
And rustle of the bladed corn.

"We turn the pages they have read,
Their written words we linger o'er;
But in the sun we pass no shade,
No voice is heard, no sign is made,
No step is on the conscious floor
Yet love will dream and faith will trust
That somehow, somewhere meet we must."

And of W. Harry Baker may it truly be said that none knew him but to love him, none named him but to praise.

Mr. HOUSHER. Mr. President, it has been said that those live the longest who accomplish the most. If that be so, the life of W. Harry Baker was long indeed, long in usefulness and rich in experience.

Early in life it was his opportunity to be cast into the environment of able people. Here in the Senate, first as a page boy, he began his contact with the captains of statemanship and of industry and who had attained prominence in the state and in the nation. In this greatest of all schools he was an apt student and here learned the beginning of the wide grasp he afterward attained upon public men and public affairs.

But with all the advantages of these circumstances he could not have succeeded in anything like the measure in which he did succeed, without the greatest foundation of character and ability which showed brightly in all his associations and activities. Into his character was woven in a high degree all of the fine qualities which make man useful and admired by their associates.

When I first came to the Legislature he was already here in a responsible position, and I saw him rise gradually until he was one of the foremost leaders in the affairs of the State. He probably knew more people and had a wider and more comprhensive grasp upon public affairs and public institutions of the State than any other individual of his generation.

He had a natural bent to learn to know people and a friendly desire to accommodate all and was capable and obliging in a degree that could only emanate from a high culture and a supreme desire to be useful.

In my long acquaintance with him I learned to esteem him as a near friend, and I felt a personal bereavement at his passing. I believe that his great spirit still lives and that we who knew him are all better for our associations with him and that the State is better because he lived.

Mr. SONES. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, Shortly after my election to the Senate in 1910, my predecessor, the late Senator J. Henry Cochran, informed me of his closest and best friends in the Senate, and they were many. Among them was our departed friend, W. Harry Baker. I recall the many nice things related by the Senator relative to Mr. Baker's character and qualifications, his integrity and loyalty. It occurred to me then that a man possessing these traits would make a desirable friend. Time stood the test.

I came into the Senate a stranger and the first person to greet me with outstretched hand was W. Harry Baker. He informed me if there was anything I desired to know concerning legislation he was at all times at my service. It was a favor I highly appreciated, and by observing his movements when a newly elected Senator was admitted, found he extended him the same courtesy as shown me so that practically every member of this body was his friend.

He was a man that throuoghly understood legislation, coming as he did from a page boy up to that of Secretary, his personal knowledge, of all the details of legislation was marvelous.

He had a wonderful memory in recalling names and faces and I do not know of any one better known, admired or respected throughout the State of Pennsylvania than W. Harry Baker.

I considered him one of my closest and best friends. No one could doubt his loyalty towards those to whom he professed friendship. I remember distinctly one little incident of his loyalty towards those he loved. A small dinner party had been arranged and he was present coming as he did with his arm in a sling. I remarked he should not have been there. He in turn told me that he could not sacrifice the interest he had in his friends.

One admirable trait in his character was being true to a promise. His word was good as his bond. He exerted himself to the utmost in behalf of a friend. I have never known him to say one thing and do another; he was very dependable.

Today we pay our tributes to his sterling worth and services. We are thinking most and caring most for the man himself. His magnetic personality, his warm greetings and sincerity made up those qualities of a great heart which outlasts all else in the remembrance of him who has now passed to the Great Beyond.

His memory still lingers with us always, a beautiful flower blooming along the highway of life, the "Everlasting," something to be remembered and treasured, the fragrance of eternal friendship.

He sacrificed his life for his friends working in their interests when physically unable and died a martyr to his enduring loyalty to those he loved and trusted.

In his memory: "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. President and fellow Senators and ladies and gentlemen, I feel today that I ought not to allow this memorial service to pass without saying a brief word, too, in regard to the love in which Harry Baker was held by his host of friends and thousand of people throughout our Commonwealth, and more especially of the esteem and regard held for him by the Senators with whom he was so closely associated for so many years.

We have been told by the resolution that Harry Baker started in as a page boy back in 1889, and that be continued advancing from one position to another, from page to chief page, to Assistant Clerk, to Assistant to the Chief Clerk,—until he was elected to that very responsible and honorable position, in 1911, of Secretary of the Senate.

We know, too, that his greatest delight was in being of service to the members of this Senate and to his friends. There was no request that could be made of him that it did not seem a blessing for him to perform. I do not believe that there was ever a man in public life whose desire to please his friends was greater than Harry's.

He was acquainted with men and affairs in this State as no other man ever was. We know how in 1908 and 1909 he was called into the State Committee to take a part in State politics, and how from that time on he was active in one position or another in the State Committee,—as Secretary, Acting Chairman, Secretary, and again State Chairman, for four years, and then ending his career as Secretary of the State Committee. I do not know, in my experience, of any man who had the number of friends that Harry Baker had; and, of greater moment, who so well deserved those friendships. I believe that Harry Baker was glad to be a true, loyal and loving friend; and when his passing came there was left a vacancy in many hearts that can never be filled. The great loss to his family was also a great loss to his friends, to the community, and to our State. Harry had the greatest regard and love for his parents, for his good wife, for his boys. All the time they were uppermost in his mind.

He had personality and it can be truly said of him:

'Tis the human touch in this world that counts,
The touch of your hand and mine,
Which means far more to the fainting heart,
Than shelter and bread and wine.
For shelter is gone when the night is o'er
And bread lasts only a day,
But the touch of the hand and the sound of the voice
Sing on in the soul alway.

An also we realize as we think of Harry the truth of these lines written by Irvine:

"There is a voice from the tomb
Sweeter than song;
There is a remembrance of the dead, to which we
Turn even from the charms of the living.
These, we would not exchange for the song of pleasure
Or the burst of revelry."

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, we Senators from Philadelphia and we citizens of Philadelphia are extremely anxious to join with the citizens of Dauphin County in order that we may partake of the joy in the memory of Harry Baker, and in order that we also may offer our condolence and our expression of sorrow and bereavement to his many friends and also to his family. We in Philadelphia considered Harry Baker a part of our community. He was there on many occasions and he becomes one of our close friends and companions—and I thought that he was my close friend and my companion. I considered Harry Baker one of my closest personal friends. You have often heard the expression, "From acorn to the mighty oak," and so was his life, from page boy of the Senate to that great Pennsylvania leader that he became.

Harry Baker was a man among men ,a true leader; and well may his life be placed alongside of the life of the great Theodore Roosevelt as an inspiration to American boyhood, showing the possibilities in public life that await the youth of this the greatest country on earth, the country of opportunity, the country where neither social standing nor religion nor any prejudice can be used against a man who is built right and is willing to do the right thing and to serve the people.

He was a loving example, an emblem, you might say, to American youth. Theodore Roosevelt represented the rough and ready type, typical of our western country, while Harry Baker represented the finer social type of American youth who took advantage of opportunities. Like Caesar, he came, he saw and he conquered. He came here as a page boy, he saw the opportunities and he conquered a place for himself among the leaders of this great Commonwealth. In the high position that he attained he lived only for the benefit of other men, not for his individual gain. He was a remarkable character. He was an honorable man.

He was a God fearing man—and there was called to my attention quite recently the fact that at one time he was selected to be the President of the New York and Pennsylvania Baseball League. He was interested in baseball and he was about to assume the presidency of that league when he found out that in the league some of the teams played ball on Sunday; and, being a God-fearing man, he would not accept that presidency, because he felt that in some other parts of this Commonwealth people were violating the Sabbath.

I am told that the last thing he did, in his last conscious moments, was to send out, I think on the third day of July, for American Flags, so that every patient in the hospital in which he was at the time had an American flag at his bedside. That shows one thing—that he was a loyal, patriotic American citizen, that he loved his country, that he loved its people and the citizens of this county, for it was in this county that he was born and raised—many will look back on the life of Harry Baker as an outstanding example of what an American youth can do, and what an American boy should do, and what can be accomplished by a Pennsylvanian through hard work, through honesty, through honest endeavor.

He lived for those who loved him,
For those who knew him true,
For the Heaven that bent above him,
And the good that he could do.
For the wrongs that need resistance,
For the cause that lacks assistance,
For the future in the distance,
And the good that he could do.

Mr. EARNEST. Mr. resident, recalling to our memories the character, the attainments, the traits of those we love enables us to gather some solace for our griefs, and perhaps enables us to give to others a glimpse of those things that we consider to be very worthwhile in the lives of those we admire and love. But no resolution, no minute, no biography, no eulogy can adequately portray the real interest of any man, especially of a man who has had a large and varied career and personality, as did W. Harry Baker.

There is always something that eludes capture, something that defies cataloging; and so we feel that we are always inadequate when we try to tell anyone what another man was.

Now, I knew and we all knew, that anyone who would speak about W. Harry Baker would speak about his friendliness, because that was the great distinguishing characteristic of Harry Baker.

I know that some of those poems that have been recited here would be used, because they fit so well the character of our friend. He lived in the house by the side of the road, and he was a friend to man.

It is fine to be manly and it is fine to have friends; and Harry Baker was friendly and he naturally had friends. He had friends because that was the wellspring of his life, the animating motive for everything he thought and did; and because his thought was so generous that even opposition as sometimes opposition came politically, did not sway him at all, had no reflex in his character or in his actions, because se was just as friendly afterwards to those who opposed him as he had been before.

How modest he was! Well, we saw him here from day to day and we who knew him for many years knew how modest he was, how alert, how active, how ready he was. He had a most unusual lot and we know, as it has been mentioned on the floor today, how much courage he had. We know his fidelity to duty in his last illness,—because he was sick and sick unto death during the last session of the legislature; and yet his fidelity to duty, with a courage that animated his life, made him go on, and it was always with a smile. No matter how much Harry Baker was suffering physically, he was smiling, as we all, who saw him, know.

So, his attainments were great, and he was handicapped in the way of having little education—nothing in the way of inherited wealth. His attainments were great and he had a wonderful mind. The resolution speaks about his memory—why his mind was a filing case mind, and anything that went into his mind stayed there and could be brought out and used when the occasion came.

He was the parliamentarian of the Senate. We looked to Harry Baker for knowledge of procedure, for precedent, for practice.

The Prophet of Old was told he could have the mantle of Elijah if he would look up and see him in the clouds; and you remember how he persisted in looking until he saw him in the clouds. And when the older prophet was taken away and everything seemed to have gone, he cried out "My Father, my Father, the chariots of Israel and the horsemen thereof."

So, when Harry Baker went it seemed that everything had gone. But so it is. He had gone. I have been told that it was the law that when a Roman soldier went into the provinces that the provincial was required to carry the arms and the accoutrement of the Roman soldier for a mile. And He who trod the hills of Gallilee knew that law and said "When Thine enemy compelleth thee to go with him a mile, go with him twain."

It is the second mile that tells. The man in the workshop or the factory or the store who is not willing to go the second mile will never get to the top. The student who is unwilling to go the second mile, the little beyond what he is required to do, will never become a scholar.

Harry Baker went the second mile. He was always willing to do more than anybody else, willing to do anything required of him. I think that was the secret of the character and life of Harry Baker, the secret of his success, the secret of his friendships,—the fact that he was willing to do more than the law required, he was willing to go the second mile.

I could talk quite a while to you, in an informal way, about Harry Baker; but youl all knew him, everybody knew him; you all loved him, everybody loved him; and Mrs. President, in offering this resolution and moving its adoption I know that you will all hold with reverence and respect the memory of Harry Baker as long as your hearts are touched with the spirit of humanity and of love.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I move that the memorial session of the Senate do now adjourn.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, March 26, 1929.

The House met at 11.00 o'clock A. M.

The SPEAKER (Aaron B. Hess), in the Chair.

PRAYER.

Rev. George P. Donehoo offered the following prayer:

Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee this morning for all Thy kindness and Thy mercies to us. Help us each one not only to appreciate the blessings we have but to look forward with hope for everything in the future. Keep us from all pessimism and from all fear. Make us each one happy warriors for that which is true and that which is right. Guide us and keep us in all that we do, true to ourselves and true to our convictions and true to Thee; we ask in Thy name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

SENATE MESSAGE.

AMENDED HOUSE BILLS RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 247.

An Act affecting marital relations (providing) prescribing grounds and regulating proceedings for divorce and the annulment of bigamous marriages and amending, revising and consolidating the laws relating thereto.

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend section 1, page 2, line 6, by striking out the word "an" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "and"; also page 4, line 2, by striking out the word "or" and insert in lieu thereof the word "and"; amend page 11, line 12, by inserting after the following: "Section 38" the words "NOTICE TO CO-RESPONDENT."

Mr. GOEHRING. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do non-concur in the amendments made by the Senate.

Mr. RHODES. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

NAYS—3.

Donnell,

Patterson, F. W..

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1421, entitled:

An Act to repeal the act approved the twenty-fourth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, (P. L. 970), entitled "An act to protect the health and lives of employes in certain occupations, by requiring the use of blowers, or similar apparatus, in connection with certain kinds of machinery, and specifying the equipment to be used in connection therewith; regulating the use of such blowers and apparatus, and providing penalties for violation of this act."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WELLS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this bill and the following five bills, are a series of bills, along the line of the Witkin bills. They are bills drawn by the Legislative Reference Bureau in an effort to clear up obsolete laws or laws that other legislation has replaced. The bills were presented to me by the Department of Labor and Industry requesting me to introduce them into the House. As you all noticed, last week they were not called up on second reading. This was because some gentleman representing organized labor asked me for an opportunity of investigating these bills, so I left them uncalled on the second reading calendar until Monday. The gentlemen that went over the Legislative Reference Bureau's brief, all said that they were perfectly satisfied that there was nothing in these bills obstructing the present labor laws and were satisfied the bills should go up for final passage.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1407, entitled:

An Act to amend section nine of an act approved the nineteenth day of March Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and nine (Pamphlet Laws forty-six) entitled "An act to regulate the practice of osteopathy in the State of Pennsylvania to provide for the establishment of a State Board of Osteopathic Examiners to define the powers and duties of said Board of Osteopathic Examiners to provide for the examining and licensing of osteopaths in this State and to provide penalties for the violation of this act" as amended defining a reputable school or college of osteopathy.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, there seems to me to be some misunderstanding of the provisions of this bill. This bill comes from the State Board of Osteopath Examiners and was submitted to the Department of Health. It provides that no osteopath college may teach materia medica or the cure of disease by drugs. In other words, it is an attempt by the osteopaths themselves to clean their own house. They do not desire that their colleges shall teach medical subjects. They want to confine their practice to osteopathy alone and not permit their physicians to practice medicine. It is a very worthy measure. It is restricting themselves to their own healing art. I have heard no objections to this bill until now. It has met with the approval of all of the members of the committee and I therefore request the members of the House to vote for the bill.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it is very well for the gentleman from Philadelphia to inform you of the very meritorious purposes of this bill. Those of you who were in the session of 1923 will recall very distinctly that Mr. Ludlow introduced the so-called amendments to the osteopathy bill permitting them to take up and teach the subject of surgery. He, upon the floor of this House, boastingly set forth the fact that they were not only teaching the four-year course but that they exceeded that by one year, making the appeal to the membership of the House at that time that they were that far in advance and that because of the teaching the art of osteopathy they should be permitted to take up the surgical art. I ask any member of this House in all fairness whether outside of the case of a simple operation for appendicitis or some operation of the nature of appendectomy, where a man wants his leg rubbed, or pulled if you please, is there any man on God's green earth who takes up the art of surgery who does not of necessity need to rely on his studies in the art of materia medica. If this bill were to repeal the surgical proposition that was amended in 1923; I would heartily endorse it, in face of the fact that they made the proposition to this House in 1923 that they would teach materia medica and all its kindred arts so that their men could take up the art of surgery. Now in common sense we must realize that after any serious operation that no manipulation can benefit an individual, and to apply medicine, they must be taught materia medica and therapeutics. Now men I ask in all fairness don't be foolish, and don't be misled. This is just a kidding bill. They find that the students now applying to the osteopathic colleges have to go through the same particular studies that the ordinary medical student does, and they find their conditions are such that the students are not applying to the osteopathic colleges but going into the broader field and taking up medicine in the broader sense. Therefore I ask you to vote the bill down.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Steedle.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STEEDLE. With pleasure, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Does the present laws or the act on the statute books relating to osteopathy give the right to osteopaths to treat diseases by use of medicine and drugs?

Mr. STEEDLE. Under the interpretations of the act of 1923, whereby the osteopath is permitted to take up the art of surgery, I don't see where it does anything else.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Will the gentleman from Allegheny tell me whether or not in the case of typhoid fever, which is not a surgical case, the osteopathist can treat such a case by the use of drugs?

Mr. STEEDLE. I don't see any reason why he could not.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I fear very much that the gentleman from Allegheny is not familiar with the provisions of the present osteopathic bill. No osteopath in Pennsylvania has the right under the present law to treat diseases by the use of medicines and drugs. He may only treat diseases by the use of manipulation; he is not a doctor of medicine. Under the prior act he was given the right to practice surgery. That carried with it the use of antiseptics. This bill before you does not enlarge on any of the rights and privileges of the osteopaths. It gives them nothing that they now do not have. They are still restricted to the treatment of diseases by the use of manipulation; they are still restricted within their own field in the practice of surgery. What does this bill do, however? During the past few years there have been some osteopathic colleges which have included in their curriculum the study of materia medica in connection with the action of drugs and the use of drugs in the treatment and cure of diseases. Now the osteopaths themselves have proposed this act in order to prevent the osteopathic physician from attempting to practice medicine, which is not his subject. They want to confine their members to the treatment of diseases by manipulation. This bill says, "But no college of osteopathy shall be recognized as reputable which gives instructions for any purpose in materia medica or the use of medicines and drugs for the curing, mitigating or alleviating of bodily diseases, except instruction in the use of antiseptics, anesthetics, antidotes and narcotics to the extent and for the purposes now specifically permitted by the laws of this Commonwealth relating to the practice of osteopathy and osteopathic surgery, but students now pursuing a course of study in an osteopathic college which may be affected by the foregoing prohibition shall not be debarred by reason of such prohibition from undergoing examination for licensure if otherwise qualified under the provisions of this act."

I say to you, members of the House, that this bill does not enlarge the practice of the osteopaths. It restricts it. It prevents them from attempting to enter the field of medicine. It does not recognize a college as being reputable which attempts to teach its students materia medica or medical instruction. It restricts the curriculum of the osteopathic colleges to instruction in antiseptics, anesthetics, antidotes and narcotics as now provided in the law with relation to osteopathic surgery. They now have the right to perform surgical operations; this bill neither gives it to them or takes it away from them. This bill merely says that an osteopath shall remain an osteopath. Under this bill they will not recognize an osteopathic college as reputable if they attempt to teach the materia medica or the use of drugs. This bill comes to the House as one of the finest gestures of a healing cult this House has ever seen. The doctors have always said to members of this House, "Don't give these people a board, because they want to practice medcine." The osteopaths say to you, "We don't want to practice medicine; we want to keep our colleges from teaching medicine." And here is a bill which certainly deserves your support.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I ask your indulgence just a moment further. I cannot sit quietly by and hear the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Blumberg, paint so dramatic a picture as he has painted in connection with this so-called healing art of osteopathy. I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BLUMBERG. Willingly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. STEEDLE. I should like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia just how he interprets the word "antiseptics"?

Mr. BLUMBERG. I understand that word in its generally accepted form as a means of preventing infection.

Mr. STEEDLE. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia realize that the term "antiseptic," does not only apply to a local but to an internal antiseptic?

Mr. BLUMBERG. I assume that is true.

Mr. STEEDLE. If you assume that is true, let me inform you that under the term "antiseptic" we probably have in the neighborhood of two hundred or three hundred drugs used for internal application and if your are interpreting the word "antiseptic" as merely a local hand application you are not taking it in its full meaning. The word "antiseptic" may carry with it the introduction of drugs into the system for the purpose of antiseptizing the intestinal canal.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Have you asked a question or stated a fact?

Mr. STEEDLE. I am stating a fact to you.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Then there is nothing to reply to, is there? Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Steedle, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STEEDLE. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Is it not a fact that under the present law the osteopaths have a right to use antiseptics in connection with surgical operations?

Mr. STEEDLE. They cannot perform a surgical operation without the use of antiseptics

Mr. BLUMBERG. It is a fact then that they now have a right to use antiseptics in connection with surgical operations?

Mr. STEEDLE. Yes.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Does this take away from them or give to them any other right?

Mr. STEEDLE. No, but it does specifically set forth that the student shall only be taught the use of antiseptics, anesthetics, antidotes and narcotics.

Mr. BLUMBERG. To what extent? Will you read that?

Mr. STEEDLE. To the limitation or to the extent now permitted by the laws of this Commonwealth relating to the practice of osteopathy and osteopathic surgery, but students now pursuing the course of study in an osteopathic college which may be affected by the foregoing prohibition shall not be debarred by reason of such prohibition from undergoing examination for licensure if otherwise qualified under the provisions of this act.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Is it a fact that this bill specifically states that they may only receive instruction in the use of antiseptics, anesthetics, antidotes and narcotics to the extent that is now permitted by the laws of the Commonwealth and so on? Is that a fact?

Mr. STEEDLE. I am accepting that as your argument. For the benefit of the House let me ask this in turn. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia state to us that paragraph of the old act.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Doctor, you being a practicing physician, you should be more familiar with that matter than I am. I am not in your profession as you know, but if the gentleman from Allegheny desires a copy of the old act, I am sure the reference bureau will gladly supply it to him.

Mr. STEEDLE. In answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia and since he is getting personal, I can only say to the gentleman from Philadelphia that as a laywer he should have left this to be presented by some doctor.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, as a physician, introduce this bill if I withdraw by name from it as sponsor?

Mr. STEEDLE. In answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia I can answer him specifically by saying "no."

Mr. KAHLE. Mr. Speaker. May I interrogate the sponsor of this bill?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Blumberg, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BLUMBERG. I will Mr. Speaker.

Mr. KAHLE. What do you understand by the term narcotics?

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House I can only say that I take the generally accepted meaning of the term, that is, those drugs designated as narcotics and which are used in connection with osteopathic surgery. As you know I am not as familiar with the practice of medicine as Dr. Steedle, but for instance where an injection of morophine is given, I presume narcotics must be used to deaden pain and that right is now conferred on the osteopaths under existing law. This bill does not disturb that feature of the practice. This bill merely provides that an osteopathic college may not teach materia medica or the use of medicines and drugs for aleviating and curing disease.

Mr. KAHLE. What is the object of this bill?

Mr. BLUMBERG. This bill is to prevent a student from entering an osteopathic college and there securing instruction in subjects which probably do not belong to that practice and also to secure a degree and then coming out of college and expecting to practice medicine under his osteopathic license. This bill would provide that the instruction would not equip an osteopath with any knowledge which he could use in treatment by the use of drugs. It is designed to prevent the osteopathic college from doing any more than teaching osteopathy.

Mr. KAHLE. May I ask you now; how far may the osteopath go in the practice of surgery?

Mr. BLUMBERG. I am not sufficiently familiar with that so that I cannot answer your question except to say that the medical profession certainly views with a great deal of concern any encroachment on the practice of medicine by any other cult. The bill assures that osteopaths will confine themselves to the surgery now permitted by law and this act wont enlarge any power or right of the osteopaths in the least.

Mr. KAHLE. Mr. Speaker and ladies and gentlemen of the House. This bill has been explained to you by Mr. Blumberg in a very flowery way. Now as I know it, the osteopath today does not have a license to practice surgery in the sense that they are a surgeon. They are limited to minor surgery and this is what I cannot understand; why do they want to teach them the effect of narcotics and anticeptics with antidotes if it is of no benefit to them whatever. I think this bill should be postponed until we can give it further consideration, and I would like to make a motion to that effect, that we postpone this bill on page 6 of todays calendar until we can give it further consideration.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, may I volunteer one further fact. There is but one college of osteopathy in Pennsylvania and that is in the city of Philadelphia. Also this further fact that this bill as it now stands was presented to the Department of Health and meets with the approval of that department.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House. As long as there was only one doctor fighting the gentleman from Philadelphia, who is a lawyer, I remained silent, but if two doctors are going to enter into a contest with him I think there should be two lawyers on the other side.

I cannot help say that I don't know anything about osteopathy, and if the gentleman from Allegheny asks me anything about drugs I will have to answer him in the negative, which is the extent of my knowledge. It seems to me that one who reads the section of this bill and reads it carefully cannot help but agree with the gentleman from Philadelphia in his position on the bill. With your permission I will briefly read it to you. It says "No college of osteopathy shall be recognized as reputable which gives instruction for any purpose," bear this in mind, it says, "for any purpose," in materia medica or the use of medicines and drugs for the curing, mitigating or alleviating of bodily diseases except instruction in the use of antiseptics, anesthetics, antidotes and narcotics to the extent and for the purposes now specifically permitted by the laws of this Commonwealth relating to the practice of osteopathy and osteopathic surgery." My heavens, all that says is, what it says, no more and no less; what osteopaths are allowed to do under the law of Pennsylvania and what the colleges have a right to instruct and no more. You gentlemen of the medical profession may be opposed to osteopathy and you may be right in that opposition, or you may be wrong, I don't know anything about it, but how they can possibly construe an idea into this bill of something that doesn't exist I cannot understand. It is simply a limitation placed upon the osteopath, instructions in materia medica shall be solely for the purpose now authorized by law. It seems to me, gentlemen of the House, that the gentleman from Philadelphia is absolutely correct in what he says as to what this bill does, and if there is no other objection to it than what has been here expressed, I think this bill should pass.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a verification of the roll.
